

Remembering Things

Lucia had many exciting hobbies, such as hiking, playing the flute, and archery. She treasured all of her memories from her performances and competitions. She wanted a way to organize all the photographs, programs, and prizes she had scattered around her room. In the end, she decided to start a scrapbook.

Lucia wanted to make the very best scrapbook that she could. She attended three different scrapbooking classes. Day after day, she visited each scrapbooking store in town to collect supplies. Night after night, she stayed up late gluing down pictures and creating beautiful labels for each page.

Meanwhile, Lucia's friend showed up at the park for their weekly hike, but Lucia wasn't there. Lucia missed her orchestra practice on both Tuesday and Thursday. And for the first time in three years, Lucia didn't show up at the annual archery competition. Up to her ears in paper, stamps, and stickers, Lucia had forgotten all about the activities in which she was scheduled to participate that week!
